Tweed

A major development of comfortable, light offices in the center of the city

Located in the heart of Brussels, Tweed is a 12-storey, 16.000 m² office project. It includes a ground-floor atrium, a first-floor mezzanine opening on to 10 floors, and four terraces with views across the "Palais de Justice" and the city. Generously proportioned, it is designed to make the very most of the natural daylight. Modular and flexible, the floor spaces can easily be divided to accommodate one or more tenants. A ceiling clearance of 2m70 makes the building all the more liveable, with an HVAC system via a radiating ceiling, as well as perforated suspended ceilings and raised access floors fitted as standard in all office floors.

Tweed embodies the most efficient passive architecture techniques for office buildings, while offering real flexibility to its occupants, who will also appreciate all the comfort provided.

The Tweed project also ambitions to meet the requirements for BREEAM certification, in the category "excellent".

Stephanie Square

The property is an office building with retail on the ground level and parking in the basement. The building totals 14.306 m² offices, 2.099 m² retail shops and 188 internal parking spaces.

The property is a multi-tenant office building with different retail shops on the ground level. Built in 1988.

The building has a reinforced concrete structure with 7 upper levels. The different office levels are built around an open courtyard and benefits of 3 staircases and lifts, as well as 2 sanitary blocks and kitchenette. The office levels have been renovated with predominantly no false ceilings, but rather suspended light boxes, carpet on false floors, 2.80 m free height, air conditioning and double glazed windows with helio screens (aluminium framed original windows, arguably rather dated and a weak point in what is otherwise a very high quality building).

IT Tower

The prestigious building, built in 1972, gave way to the 102 meter tall "IT TOWER" building, whose architectural design was conceived by the architect Walter Bresseleers. The building is composed of two unequal linked towers. One blind tower in concrete for technical and service purposes (lifts, sanitaria, staircases) and the other tower for office use.

The building has an attractive international modernist architectural look, characterized by a rational layout. The building's bearing structure is conceived as a concrete grid structure with 28 pillars and façades of glass thermopane and black aluminum. The main tower has 25 above-ground levels and 5 basement levels.

The ground floor includes common meeting rooms and a large reception hall with welcoming sofa corners and the building's reception desk.

A fitness center on the -1 level provides sport- and relaxation time with showers for the outdoor sporters.

Parc de l'Alliance

At a time when multifunctional business parks are on the increase, the Parc de l'Alliance, which stretches on 60 hectares, is the biggest business park in Belgium.

This open and well-organized area with its buildings located around little squares, wooded paths and avenues, ornamental ponds and gardens forms a serene and harmonious entity.

The wise choice and perfect combination of the building materials, as well as the light stone used on each building, and the architecture intentionally different of each building generate an exceptional park in its genre.

The site also perfectly allies offices and residential areas, some restaurants and leisure infrastructures while integrating sooner or later a shopping center and a hotel.
